Washington DC: von ammon co is pleased to announce FOCUS GROUP, an exhibition featuring sixteen artists whose commonality is the use of the found or readymade object in video, sculpture, photography, and painting.

Coinciding with the initiation of a multi-year exploration of Marcel Duchamp's legacy at the Hirshhorn Museum, FOCUS GROUP examines the artist's use of the found object in the postmodern era, and its frequent intersections with 21st century consumer culture.

The works in the exhibition will encompass a variety of different media: video incorporating readymade graphics and content; interactive installations in the form of arcade games; sculpture using found objects such as toys, consumer packaging and hollywood props; photography depicting post-consumer waste; and painting incorporating readymade images such as stock photography and repurposed billboard advertising.

FOCUS GROUP will be a curated group exhibition whose content relates closely to the gallery's celebrated inaugural exhibition, MENTAL, a solo show by artist Tabor Robak. Featuring a similar number of artists to a museum exhibition, FOCUS GROUP seeks to introduce the DC audience to a wide array of internationally-recognized artists working in a plurality of different styles and media.

von ammon co. is open to the public from 12pm to 6pm, Tuesday through Saturday. Admission is free and photography is permitted.
